What's the Principles program?

APICS Principles is a complete education and training program focused on providing employees with a solid foundational knowledge in the field of supply chain and operations management. The program includes five course modules that are divided into sets of 11 sessions, including two exams. The courses focus on the principles, methods, techniques and language of operations management, and how different operations management strategies impact organizational outcomes and financial results.

Is Principles right for your organization?

The program is designed to fit the training needs of organizations with employees who have a variety of education backgrounds, varied on-the-job learning experiences and different learning requirements. Beyond basics, the courseware includes advanced topics for employees who already have a background in operations management. The modular nature of the courses means that organizations, departments or teams can create a customized learning experience by selecting specific sessions from a course or combining sessions from multiple courses.

How does it work?

Each APICS Principles module can be taught as a complete course. Alternatively, organizations can select sessions to build completely customized training programs. APICS also offers recommended Principles courses of study that focus on building the knowledge required for specific job roles or addressing particular areas of expertise.
